BRASILIA DF, Brazil. Friday, March 16, Carl and Naomi Bookout arrived in Brazil's ultra-modern capital.

About his flight Carl wrote, "Our planes were late everywhere after Houston, but we had plenty of time to make our connections. Manaus was the most challenging. They only gave instructions in Portuguese and they moved the gate without posting it on the monitor. We just had to follow the crowd and hope we were going to the right plane!! Of course, this was at 4:00 a.m."

Sergio and Marcia Santos, projected evangelist for the new church plant in Atlanta, were on hand to meet them and transport them to the Metropolitan Hotel.

Communications

"I have downloaded a program called Skype on the laptop. This is a free program that allows people to communicate all over the world through the computer like a telephone. All that is needed is some form of speaker and microphone. If anyone wants to download the program, we can easily communicate while Naomi and I are in Brazil. Otherwise, use the e-mail, cbookout@flash.net"

Open Doors

"God has opened doors for me to meet over 30 pastors and worship in at least 10 different churches while in Brazil. This will help with our learning and will allow us to network with key leaders in that country. In addition to working with Sergio and his wife, Marcia, I will also meet with Gilmar and Fatima Salgado. They are the couple we want to bring to the Astoria Project."
